

Crucible Think -Tac -Toe

Choose three across horizontally, diagonally, or vertically. Be creative!

React, respond and explicate a "five star quote" of your choice. A "five star quote" is a quote that "jumps off the page" at you for any number of reasons. It may be aphoristic, profound, humorous, universal, or any reason you choose.	In a brief essay, describe how you felt when Elizabeth lied in the courtroom to protect John. Was this a good lie? Why was this lie a "good lie" as opposed to the lie John was asked to tell	Create a tombstone for three of the major characters in the play. On the stone include the date of birth and death, and a brief description of the character.
Create a short list of enduring understandings that emerge as you read. Use evidence from The Crucible to support your claims about the enduring understandings you take away from the play. How will these understandings shape decisions you will make in the future? How should these understandings shape our society?	Write a fictional letter to one or more of the characters or create a letter written from one character in the play to another that expresses some unspoken feelings or thoughts.	Choose a pivotal point in the play's plot and rewrite the outcome. How would the other characters react? How would the direction of the play change? It is important to focus on one small section; keep it focused and detailed.
Create a movie poster for The Crucible. You may want to consider any one of the following and illustrate how it underscores one of the motifs or themes of the book: metaphor, foreshadowing, symbolism, characterization, structure, hyperbole, imagery, diction, voice, etc.	Create a collection of artifacts (in a box) for one of the characters in the book; attach a written rationale for your choice to each item.	Choose a minimum of four characters from The Crucible and find fitting song lyrics for each one of them. Scan or type out the song lyrics and annotate the lyrics for writer's craft as well as an explanation as to why you chose that particular song for the character. Burn a CD of the songs and create a CD cover that illustrates a major motif or theme of the text.
